are conducting a stock brokerage business within the bank and using such funds directly or indirectly for carrying speculative accounts in stocks and bonds, especially when such funds can be employed with greater benefit to the public by depositing them in banks which will use them for legitimate commercial purposes."

Affidavit Submitted.

During the hearing of the injunction suit of the bank against the Government officers, the following affidavit was submitted by counsel for the bank:

"Charles C. Glover, William J. Flathr, and Henry H. Flather, being first duly sworn, on oath say that they are, respectively, the president, one of the vice presidents, and the cashier of the Riggs National Bank; that they have been connected with that institution since the first day of its organization as a national banking association; that the said bank never at any time bought or sold any stock whatever from or through the firm of Lewis Johnson & Co.; that the Riggs National Bank never at any time from its organization to the present ever made a short sale of stock to or through the control of the contr through Lewis Johnson & Co.; that if there are any entries on the books of the bankrupt firm of Lawis Johnson & the bankrupt firm of Lawis Johnson & Co. which purport to show that the Rikgs National Bank bought stock, sold stock, or made short sales, those entries are false; these affiants, on information and belief, say that an examination of the books of Lewis Johnson & Co. since that firm was declared hankrupt has shown many fictituious accounts, and the use of many accounts for the false entries of alleged transactions. actions.

"CHARLES C GLOVER.
"WILLIAM F. FLATHER."
"HENRY H. FLATHER."

In response, counsel for the Government filed an affidavit by W. Morris Lammond, who was bookkeeper for Lewis Johnson & Co, and who is now beekkeeper for the trustees, setting forth that the books of the Lewis Johnson Company showed about 164 pages showing accounts of purchases and sales for the Riggs National Bank in the showing accounts of purchases and sales for the Riggs National Bank in its name. There were, he affirmed, many thousands of purchases and sales of stocks and bonds by the firm of Lewis Johnson & Co. for the account of the Riggs National Bank, including all manner of mining and other speculative stocks, some at less than $1 per share. The affidavit detailed the manner in which transactions were made and recorded from the giving of orders for purchase and sale to the mailing of notices of execution of such orders.

At the hearing Attorney Hogan, for notices of execution of such orders.

At the hearing Attorney Hogan, for the back, stated that an inference not intended had been drawn "through my misfortune in phraseology." He was speaking of the affidavit by the bank officers. He said that what it was intended to say was that if there were any entries or accounts purporting to show that the Riggs National Bank had made short sales of stocks, that those entries were false.

Marines Are Trying To

Open Roads of Haiti

Rear Admiral Caperton reports from Haiti that the American marines there are trying to open up all the railroad lines in order to allow food supplies to reach the cities

Chiefs of the Cacos have been told of the intention of the marines. Some opposition has been encountered from guerrilla bands, but whether there will be serious fighting is not yet reported.

ON LOCAL EXCHANGE

Typesetting machine stocks continued o be the center of interest at today's 59% session of the Washington Stock Exchange. Quotation lots of Mergenthaler Linotype were bid up 2% points to 179%, and odd lot sales were made at more than 5 points above recently prevailing prices. Lanston continued in good demand at fractionally higher fig-

After Mergenthaler had been bid up sharply without bringing out quotation lots, a single share sold at 1791/2 and two additional shares brought 180. The only sale of Lanston consisted of 4 shares at 80%, the price which was bid for quotations.

The Commercial National Bank has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 24 per cent, payable October 1 to stockholders of record September 27. The transfer books will be closed be-tween those dates

Goose Served Kansan As Decoy and Watch-Dog

JUNCTION CITY, Kan., Sept. 23.-Ed Bickenhauser is mourning the death of his pet wild goose. Eighteen years ago Mr. Bickenhauser shot the goose while on a hunting trip, breaking one wing. He brought it home with him, and it soon recovered from the wound and became tame.

The goose was a reliable weather prophet as well as a watchman around the Bickenhauser home. No stranger could enter the yard, either by day or night, without having his presence made known by the goose.

In addition, the goose was an exceptional decoy, and his honking would frequently bring wild geese within shooting listance. He accompanied Mr. Bickenhauser on many hunting trips, and at the sight of a shotgun would show his anticipation by flapping his wings, honking, and making a dash for Bicken-hauser's hunting buggy.

Has just enough seasoning added to the delicate flavor of the fresh, ripe tomato relish.

appetizing - pure wholesome. One of the 57
